How to Form a Student Chapter

Initially your group would need...

• At least nine AAPG student members within your geoscience department. (Note: The chapter now may start with 6 members, but must have 9 by the end of one year.)

• A faculty advisor who is a ‘Member’ or ‘Associate’ of AAPG and a professor at the university willing to serve as faculty advisor.

Gather the following information and submit it to the Student Affairs Coordinator (see below) at AAPG headquarters to start your chapter:

• List of student names with membership numbers.

• Name of Faculty Advisor with membership number and email address.

• Official name of your chapter with complete mailing address
  (Examples: University of Aberdeen Chapter of the AAPG, Muckers Coterie-
  University of California at Santa Barbara, or Kansas State University AAPG Student Chapter).

• Affiliated sponsor society and name of the society liaison.
  (This is now a recommendation only. It is no longer a requirement.)

INTRODUCTION
This manual is a guide to the operation of student chapters of The American Association of Petroleum Geologist (AAPG). The purpose of this Association is to advance the science of geology, especially as it relates to petroleum, natural gas, and other energy mineral resources; to promote the technology of exploring for, finding, and producing these materials from the earth; to foster the spirit of scientific research throughout its membership; to disseminate information relating to the geology and the associated technology of petroleum, natural gas, and other energy mineral resources; to inspire and maintain a high standard of professional conduct on the part of its membership; to provide the public with means of recognition of adequately trained and professionally responsible petroleum geologists; and to advance the professional wellbeing of its membership. A strong student program, both graduate and undergraduate is a vital part of the Association. Additionally, student chapters also provide a means of contact with the geological profession both inside and outside of academia. That contact, facilitated through the Student Chapter Program, is of benefit to the AAPG, to the university and to students.

MEMBERSHIP
Members of the Student Chapter must be a part of the AAPG. In applying for membership, the applicant must list an advisor, preferably a professor. The Student status shall terminate twenty-four (24) months after termination of academic enrollment according to the latest graduation year (BSc, MSc, or PhD) indicated on the student application. The membership will then automatically move to Associate status unless otherwise designated. If the expected graduation date changes, the student member must notify AAPG to extend student status.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP
1. AAPG Bulletin—the AAPG Bulletin is internationally recognized as a leading geologic publication for geology, petroleum, natural gas, and other energy mineral resources. Every student member receives online access (plus annual CD-ROM) to the AAPG Bulletin in lieu of a paper copy.
2. The AAPG Explorer—is the monthly newspaper, which covers news and association information. It is distributed to AAPG membership (online access for Students) and encompasses the widest reading audience.
3. Student Chapter members have the opportunity for meeting and networking with experienced geologists through activities with local affiliated societies, through section and regional meetings, at the AAPG annual and sectional meetings.
4. Active participation in the Student Chapter provides the student an opportunity to develop leadership and management skills. A sense of professionalism is developed by actively running an organization and networking with professionals.
5. Student Chapter members can participate in the student paper contest at the annual meeting. The cash awards are significant for both the student and the university.
6. ‘Students’ can participate in the AAPG insurance program.
7. AAPG membership receives discounts on AAPG publications.
8. GRADUATE STUDENTS are eligible for grants-in-aid for special research projects. Each year the AAPG Foundation awards grants ranging from $500-$3000 to support graduate students in geology, with a special emphasis on support of fieldwork. To download an application, go to: http://foundation.aapg.org/gia/
9. For UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS the L. Austin Weeks Undergraduate Grant supports undergraduate geoscience students and departments through the AAPG Student Chapter Program. The disbursement of the grant each year consists of $1,000 per qualified student chapter. $500 is to be given to a selected undergraduate student, with the remaining $500 to be issued directly to the AAPG Student Chapter and the funds used to support the Student Chapter’s activities. Application forms are released in September with the deadline date in December. To learn about L. Austin Weeks, go to: http://students.aapg.org/chaptergrant.cfm
10. Discounts on short courses ($90 fee for student members/ $50 fee for chapter members) with a limited number of reserved slots.
11. Access to the Visiting Geoscientist and Distinguished Lecture Programs.
12. Opportunity to participate in Student Expo’s (Job Fairs)
14. Student Outlook blog and Facebook pages covering the Student Chapter Program activities and updates.
15. The opportunity to work the General Store during the annual convention to raise money for chapter.
16. Eligibility for AAPG Student Chapter Book Gift Program.
FACULTY Advisor AND/OR CO-Advisor

The continuity of a Student Chapter will be ensured by choosing a Faculty Advisor (or Co-advisors) who are committed to helping and maintaining a Student Chapter. The Chapter must choose a faculty advisor; the faculty advisor must be a 'Member' or 'Associate' of AAPG and will serve as the liaison between AAPG and the Student Chapter. Additional duties of the Faculty Advisor are to be aware of the Constitution, Bylaws, and Rules of AAPG and assure the Chapter's adherence to them; to assure that the Chapter prepares and delivers their reports to Headquarters as per the schedule; and to be a repository for the Chapter's records.

The success (or failure) of a Student Chapter is often related to the participation (or lack of) of the faculty advisor. Even the most energetic of Student Chapter Presidents’ need the support and encouragement of the faculty advisor. When selecting your advisor(s) we suggest you talk with them beforehand such that they may be aware of, and be willing to accept the responsibility.

LOCAL AAPG AFFILIATED SOCIETY

The nearest local AAPG affiliated Society should be invited to sponsor the Student Chapter and, if it accepts, it should appoint a person to be the Local Society Sponsor for your Student Chapter. The Local Society Sponsor will serve as the liaison between the Society and the Student Chapter. The Chapter may consider asking the sponsoring society’s liaison to serve on the Chapter Executive Committee.

Students are encouraged to attend the meetings of the Sponsoring Society. In addition to their monthly meetings, they may provide you with speakers and/or field trip leaders.

Local societies often sponsor short courses, seminars or field trips, which you may participate in, sometimes for greatly reduced rates. The local society may also provide an excellent forum for your Chapter members. Sponsor a one-day seminar or a twoday seminar research for the society or put together post sessions for their monthly meetings.

Members of the Sponsoring Society may be interested in attending your technical programs or field trips.

There may be some universities where the nearest affiliated society is too far away to provide support, in which case the student chapter will operate without a Society Sponsor. If there is no affiliated society to sponsor the student chapter, a local geologist can be asked to be a Professional Affiliate to provide support which normally comes from the affiliated society’s Sponsor.

STUDENT CHAPTER OPERATION

In keeping with the purposes of the AAPG, a Student Chapter is encouraged to provide a strong technical program to its membership. We recommend having a monthly speaker at your monthly meetings. These can be faculty members, geologists from the Sponsoring Society, or might be requested from either of AAPG's two speaker programs, the Visiting Geoscientist Program and Distinguished Lecturer programs. Information can be obtained from the AAPG Education Department or the AAPG website.

AAPG has a standing committee for Student Chapters and this committee offers several technical short courses and/or field trips at the annual convention especially for students. For information on, or assistance with, any of these AAPG services contact AAPG headquarters or a member of the Student Chapter Committee.

Appoint someone to serve as a program chair and another student to serve as a field trip chair. Assign the duties for writing reports to the President or Secretary.

REPORTS

The bylaws require the student chapter to submit two reports, one mid-year (January-June activities) and another at the end of the calendar year (July-December activities). These reports are vital to AAPG in that they provide AAPG with its only tangible data regarding the success of the program. The Chapter’s reports keep the AAPG Student Chapter eligible for many benefits and are what the Student Chapter Committee references in order to decide the Outstanding Student Chapters each year. It is preferable that the Chapter’s reports be emailed to students@aapg.org as a Word or PDF attachment. However reports may also be mailed or faxed to AAPG HQ. A report is defined as a document containing:

1. A listing of the officers of the chapter (AAPG member number, name and email addresses)
2. Faculty advisor and any co-advisors (AAPG member number, name and email addresses)
3. A member list for the Chapter (AAPG member number and name)
4. A report on activities the chapter has engaged in since their last report was filed (mid-year or end of year).
5. A brief financial summary of the Chapter’s usage of funds.
