SOURCE ROCKS OF THE MIDDLE EAST: A WORLD CLASS RESOURCE FOR UNCONVENTIONAL?

SPONSORSHIP BROCHURE

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM THE AAPG EXPERIENCE

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG) and our suppliers, venues and services partners are committed to providing a clean and safe environment and experience for all our event participants. We remain alert to COVID-19 risks and are closely following and adapting to all applicable health and safety guidelines. While conditions vary between countries, cities, municipalities, and facilities, safeguarding measures you may encounter at AAPG events include physical distancing and masking, readily available hand sanitizer, enhanced cleaning and disinfecting protocols, temperature health checks and screenings, minimized touchpoints and cashless payment options.

As personal safety is a shared responsibility, we ask that all participants ensure that they are feeling well and in good health, with no fever or other symptoms related to COVID-19, before showing up at an AAPG event. Any specific delegate obligations will be published in pre-event communications and clearly displayed on signage throughout our venues. Given the ever-changing nature of the pandemic recovery, registrants will receive regular updates and instructions concerning the latest health and safety requirements.

WORKSHOP OUTLINE

With the recent shale oil boom in North America, source rocks became a subject of great interest and importance to oil and gas companies worldwide. There is a wealth of data available in the public domain to describe and characterise these prolific source rocks in the different American basins. For the Middle East, the unconventional resources are yet to prosper, hence the need to properly understand the hydrocarbon generators of this region.

The AAPG Geoscience Technology Workshop titled "Source Rocks of the Middle East: A World Class Resource for Unconventional?" aims to focus on the geological aspects of the unconventional revolution which is vital to ensure successful Exploration, Appraisal and subsequently Development of the basins in the region. The technical program of the workshop aims to cover a wide range of topics, specifically relevant to the Middle East Region, from the basinal scale down to the cores level. The titles of the sessions are as follow:

- Session 1: Stratigraphy and Sedimentology of Source Rocks in the Middle East Region
- Session 2: Existing Practices and Advances in Basin Modeling
- Session 3: Source Rocks Geochemistry
- Session 4: Source Rocks Geomechanics
- Session 5: Petrophysical Evaluation of Source Rocks
- Session 6: Unconventional Geophysics for Unconventional Plays

In addition to the aforementioned sessions, a dedicated and interactive core display session is offered. This session will link the ideas and concepts discussed during the oral presentations throughout the workshop to the core specimens on display, thus enhancing the knowledge and experience of the attendees.

One of the main distinguishers of this workshop is that it is based and focused on the geology of the source rocks more than hydraulic fracturing. Another key distinguisher is that it is dedicated to improving the understanding of regional source rocks rather than sharing the North American experience.

Workshop objectives

The workshop aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the source rocks in the Middle East. The technical program is developed in a way that covers the depositional environments and transport processes, basin modeling and detailed rock characterisation including geochemistry, geomechanics and petrophysics. The sessions are focused on the existing best practices and the recent advances in each domain.
